Sindh CM chairs graduation ceremony of newly inducted sales tax officers

KARACHI - Sindh Chief Minister Syed Murad Ali Shah on Friday presiding over the Sindh Revenue Board (SRB) Graduation Ceremony of the under-training Sindh Sales Tax Officers (SSTOs) appreciated SRB's increasing reliance on technology and automation.

The ceremony was attended by KMC Administrator Murtaza Wahab, Chairman SRB Khalid Mahmood, PSCM Sajid Jamal Abro, Secretary Finance Hassan Naqvi, SRB advisor Mushtaq Kazmi, leading economist Qaiser Bengali and others on Friday at SRB office, Shaheen Complex here. SRB inducted a batch of 40 SSTOs in March 2021 and their five-month training was conducted by the Sindh Institute of Fiscal Management (SIFM). Addressing the SSTOs, the CM expressed his satisfaction over the successful conduct of the Training Program by SIFM and SRB. He appreciated the performance of the SRB in generating revenue for Sindh ever since it was operationalised in 2011 and expressed hope that the newly inducted SSTOs would serve the SRB and the Sindh as well and that they would contribute towards optimal collection of revenue for economic progress of province. The Sindh Chief Minister distributed shields and certificates among the graduating SSTOs. Meanwhile, Sindh CM while visiting the SRB offices and meeting with the management and staffers, urged upon them to work with greater dedication. Murad also highlighted the need to maintain transparency and to devise systems that were further business friendly. He appreciated SRB's increasing reliance on technology and automation, which he said, must remained a continuous process.
